HUGE FEDERAL GRANT FOR LOCAL SEWERS

The town has received a federal grant of $839,500, under the Accelerated Public Works program, to pay half the cost of sewer extensions planned by the town.

Application for the money was made late last year. But basic parts of the project itself were defeated at town meeting in March.

It appeared, when the announcement was made late Wednesday, that only a special town meeting, and a change of heart by those who successfully opposed the extensions, could make the federal-town partnership a reality. Presumably the funds would not be available for other than the requested project.

It's another booming year for the public schools.

Advance forecasts indicate at least 311 more children will be enrolled this September than were in school in September, 1962.

Supt. Edward I. Erickson presented the estimates Monday night for the School Committee, explaining that in each case, the principals of the schools have prepared the figures as accurately as possible this far ahead of the new school year.

On the basis of the estimated school population, there will be 1,720 students in the secondary schools and 2,437 in elementary grades. An additional 53 will be enrolled in special classes.

The Junior High will hold a whopping 932 students, while the High School will be at a peak 805. By schools, Central will house 610 pupils; Stowe School, 61; Jackson 36; Sanborn, 431; Shawsheen 380; South, 537; and West, 418.

By grades, it looks as though the schools will be housing 339

Regional School Changes Sought

Members of the Regional School Committee may have a rougher job ahead than they anticipated, if the Legislature approves two resolutions by the Board of Selectmen.

The local Board has formally asked local representatives to file legislation changing two parts of the School District statute.

One, suggested and highly recommended by Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien, would give the town a longer time to take action on capital expenditures proposed by the Regional Committee.

The second would have a method of voting changed. At the moment, each of the towns — Andover, North Andover and Methuen — and the city of Lawrence has a veto power over proposed capital expenditures. But as it stands, the vote in town meeting would — if they disapproved of the plans — vote on a negative motion to withhold approval. If no action is taken, it means unspoken consent.

Will Schools Continue Religious Customs?

The School Committee is being asked to substitute some form of religious observance, at the opening of the school day, for the now-banned Bible reading and Lord's Prayer.

The Rev. J. Allyn Bradford, pastor of the Free Christian Church, has taken the position that some religious observance should be substituted, without defying the ruling of the Supreme Court that recitation of the Lord's Prayer, or reading from the Bible, is in violation of Constitutional rights.

Mr. Bradford does not specifically outline a substitute, however.

His urgent appeal came in a letter to the School Committee, which Monday night voted to strike from its rules and regulations a section that has now become illegal. Final action on that subject must be taken at the next Committee meeting.

Supt. of Schools Edward I. Erickson read Mr. Bradford's letter to the Committee, and also presented a formal document from the state Department of Education notifying the School Committee of the Supreme Court decision.

No action was taken on Mr. Bradford's request, nor on any of several suggested substitutions. Members of the School Committee noted that other systems seem to

NOW OFFICIAL — Francis J. Mooney, 12 Sutherland st., was sworn into office as Postmaster late last week. Doing the honors for the Department was William J. Hartigan, assistant Postmaster General for the Bureau of Transportation. Fittingly, the ceremony was performed in front of a portrait of President John F. Kennedy, who recommended Mr. Mooney for confirmation by the U. S. Senate. (Cole)

Charter Study Committee Must Hold Open Meetings

All meetings of the committee studying the town manager charter, and how it has been functioning, must be open to the public.

Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien has ruled that the committee falls within the scope of the Open Meeting law, and the special section dealing with committees investigating the government.

Town Counsel wrote: "It is my opinion that all meetings of your committee must be open meetings and notice of all meetings must be posted more than 24 hours before the meeting on the bulletin board of the town clerk. The Board must maintain accurate records of action taken at each meeting and the records shall become public records". Town Counsel also notes that: "Under the provisions of section 23B of the same chapter, no person shall address a public meeting of a board without leave of the presiding officer and all persons shall at the request of such presiding officer be silent..."

SUGGEST CHANGES IN SCHOOL STATUTE

The Selectmen want this changed, to conform with procedures governing the town's School Committee - a request for approval and appropriation of funds, and a positive motion to take the action.

On the latter suggestion, Town Counsel O'Brien said he finds that most regional school districts in the state follow a similar pattern, and doubts whether the Legislature will change in this case.

But as to the time allowed for taking action at all, counsel described the present allowance of 23 days as far too short. He noted that, for practical purposes, it would be impossible to call a special meeting and record a vote within the specified time - yet this is the only way that the town can disapprove a capital expenditure plan.

At the moment, he described the law, in this regard, as being "unnecessarily dangerous". He went on to point out that, depending on the time of year, "it might be impossible to register disapproval of any indebtedness the Regional Committee wished to unload on the town".

As far as the Regional budget, Mr. O'Brien said the town must pay its assessed share of this, without question.

At this time, the Regional Committee is planning to acquire land and hire an architect, and will borrow funds to cover the costs.
As an example of the time limit imposed under the law:

When the Regional Committee decides to borrow the money, it will notify the town.

The town then has 23 days to disapprove, via a special town meeting.

But municipal authorities Monday night felt that a special meeting might not work during the summer months.

Because of the small amount of money involved in this first capital expenditure, Mr. O'Brien suggested that calling a special meeting may be only because of the principle, and not because of the financial burden. And if the borrowed funds are to be paid next year, he explained, they will no doubt be included in the annual operating budget of the Regional Committee, and must thus be provided without contrary action.

Brazen Thief Gets $145

A brazen young man is reported by police to have stolen $145 from a South Main st. home last Friday afternoon, while the occupant entertained guests in a side yard.

Mrs. Arlene M. Durso, 392 South Main st., reported to police that a wallet containing the money was stolen by a man described as being between 22-23, tall, husky build and reddish brown hair.

He apparently entered the front door while Mrs. Durso and a neighbor sat in the yard. They saw him leaving however, and reported the suspect was driving an old-model, powder-blue car.

The theft was reported at 3:50 p.m., and was investigated by Sgt. Robert Deyermund.

Miss Mary Disbrow of North st. and Susan Loosigian of Blanchard st. have returned, after attending the State Conference of Senior Pilgrim Fellowship, held at the Framingham Conference Center.

be trying a variety of alternates — moments of silence, reading from great literature, or, in one case, deliberately reading from the Bible, despite the Court decision. Members were in general agreement that some substitution should be made, but they wanted more time to think about possible alternatives.

They officially received one letter on the subject, from Karl Haartz, in which he suggested a specific poem that might be read at the opening of each day. Mr. Haartz defended the Supreme Court's decision, calling it a "strengthening of civil rights".

Also read into the records was a petition, signed by Principal Lionel Goulet and teachers of the South School, asking the School Committee to retain the familiar Bible readings and Prayer. The petition was dated the day after the now-famous decision.

Supt. Erickson described the petition as being one of placing the teachers on record as favoring the long-standing practice, but not an effort to have the School Committee defy the law.

He said most teachers in the system feel the same way.

He told the Committee that no pattern has developed yet, as most school administrators and school committees are groping for a solution. Still to be clarified, he noted, is the practice of opening the closing graduation with Prayer.

Mr. Bradford's letter to the Committee stated:

"As the minister of the Free Christian Church in Andover, I would like to request that consideration be given to the continuation of religious observances in some form by the public schools in this community. I believe it is my democratic right to make such a request and speak only as one who is among those who are interested and concerned.

"Though I firmly believe in the principles of separation of church and state as set forth in the Constitution, and reaffirmed by recent Supreme Court rulings, I also affirm that political authority must never appear to be ultimate. It is to ask nothing more than to remain in keeping with customs, ideals and character of our nation that I make my request for the retention of some kind of religious observances in our schools.

"I would not ask for you to consider action which would be contrary to law; nor do I ask for a sectarian emphasis in what is essentially a pluralistic society; but I do ask that some kind of genuine religious observances be kept in our schools as it is in many of the courts and legislative assemblies.

"I write this letter in full agreement with the statement by the Supreme Court to the effect that the real responsibility for teaching religion falls to the home and church."

Eastern Mass. Gets Approval

The Selectmen have approved the Eastern Mass. Street Railway's request to use local streets and Rt. 93 ramps, for an express route to Boston.

But the agreement will not be released to the company until written agreements have been approved by Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien, covering revocation of the agreement sometime in the future. The Selectmen intend to revoke the right to use the ramps at Rts. 133 and 93 when Rt. 495 is completed, thus requiring the firm to use the latter thru-way.

Atty. O'Brien told the Board that the agreement is not binding, but would be useful for the record. The bus company was agreeable to the provision, even offering to have its own lawyers prepare the document.

MEETINGS MUST BE OPEN

The chapter referred to in the town counsel's opinion states that all meetings, even those the committee itself may try to make into executive sessions, will be open. It reads: "The meetings of any such board which shall be investigating any board or agency of a municipal government or any legislation which could ultimately change or alter the existing governmental structure of a city or town, shall at all times be open to the public and to the press notwithstanding a vote of such board to go into executive session."

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for the first week in August.

50-Year Banking Career Ends For Louis S. Finger

ROBERT M. HENDERSON

Louis S. Finger, 80 Walnut ave., president of the Andover Savings Bank since 1958 and a 50-year veteran in banking circles, will retire Aug. 1.

Robert M. Henderson, vice president and treasurer since January of 1962, will assume the presidency, according to the Bank's Board of Trustees.

Richard C. MacGowan, vice treasurer of the Lowell Institution for Savings, will succeed Mr. Henderson as treasurer.

Mr. Finger's career in banking began at the Melrose National Bank, and he later joined the Andover National Bank. He moved to Newburyport, joining the First and Ocean National Bank in that city, and became its vice president and treasurer.

Mr. Finger returned here in 1935 as vice president and treasurer of the Andover Savings Bank and was elected president in 1958. He is also a trustee, incorporator and member of the Board of Investment.

Mr. Finger is well-known in the town as an official of the American Bankers Association. He has served as chairman of that organization's Investment Committee and on its Executive Committee. He later served as vice president of the ABA's Savings and Mortgage Division and was president in 1959-'60.

He has also been president of the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts, from 1953 to 1955 and served as chairman of the Association's committee on Practices and Procedures, was chairman of the Publicity Committee, a member of both the Research and Legislative Committees, and has served as vice president of the Mutual Savings Central Fund Inc.

He also has served as chairman of the Savings Bank Internal Operations Committee of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks and is a director of two local firms, the Andover Companies and the Merrimack Valley National Bank.

The Bank's new president joined the organization in 1952 as branch manager of the North Andover office. He had previously spent six years with the Medford Savings Bank. He became assistant treasurer in 1955 and in January of 1962 was elected corporator, trustee and vice president-treasurer of the institution.

Mr. Henderson graduated from Medford High School in 1943 and saw duty with the Navy for 2 1/2 years during World War II. He has taken courses at the American Institute of Banking, where he holds two graduate certificates and graduated in 1961 from the Stonier

LOUIS S. FINGER

Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University.

He is secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, has served on the town's Finance Committee and is chairman of the Board of Directors of the First Calvary Baptist Church in Lawrence.

Have you wondered how vaccine differs from antibiotic treatments? Both utilize bacteria to destroy disease-causing germs, but the vaccine contains the identical germs that cause the disease, only in a form harmless to the individual.

Antibiotics, however, contain substances hostile to the disease-causing germs which provide the body with the means of destroying the attacking germs.

Antibiotics are used extensively these days in prescriptions to combat a wide variety of human ailments. You can be sure of personal attention to your needs when you trade at SHAWSEEN PHARMACY, Shawsheen Square, Free prescription delivery.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

If There's Any Way

The Rev. J. Allyn Bradford, in a letter to the School Committee, has urged that some sort of religious observance be continued in the schools, but without violating the law as expressed in a recent Supreme Court decision.

We heartily agree with Mr. Bradford.

And he makes particular sense when he notes that this practice would conform to similar observances in legislative bodies and courts.

Many people agree that there should be something to replace the recitation of the Lord's Prayer and the Bible reading, which formerly started each school day. But there has been little done in the way of positive suggestions. Some schools may adopt an official moment of silence; one, at least, plans to continue reading the Bible; it has also been suggested that great literature may be substituted. None of these ideas has met enthusiastic response.

If there is any way to implement Mr. Bradford's suggestion, without defying the law of the land, let us make haste to do so.

Open Meetings

Town Counsel has ruled that the committee studying the town charter must hold open meetings.

As a matter of fact, it appears that even a committee decision to go into executive session is invalid, because of a particular section of the Open Meeting law covering committees and studies which might result in changes in town government.

It should be stressed, however, that no one attending the meetings has a right to speak unless given permission by the chairman, and an individual must abide by the ruling of the chairman, if he wishes to cut off remarks from spectators.

Presumably some members of the committee will be upset by the ruling; others welcome it.

In the long run, it should be helpful to have these meetings open. No one can possibly claim, after a report is written, that the committee liberally applies whitewash, or that one individual or department was unjustly criticized or persecuted, because the proceedings will be wide open throughout the deliberations.

Thus, although some members may worry about losing their personal freedom to comment without having to bear the responsibility of their remarks, the open meeting requirement will be an advantage to the community.

One Idea Makes Sense

The Selectmen are currently trying to have two changes made in the Regional School District statute, to bring the capital expenditure program of that District more within the jurisdiction of the town.

Full details of their resolutions may be found in the news columns this week.

We believe that one of the suggestions, having to do with the length of time given to the community to act, makes sense. The law allows 23 days - it is a practical impossibility for the town to call a special town meeting, particularly in the summer, and get a vote, within that period of time. Thus it makes sense to lengthen the time requirement.

The second suggestion - to change the method of voting, to conform with local School Committee practices - may, in theory be fine. But town counsel points out that the manner of voting detailed in the law follows a pattern established for all Regional School Districts. We do not think a serious effort should be made to change this portion of the statute, for to seriously press this point is, in effect, asking the Legislature to negate all it has done in other districts.

Another factor is also to be considered - the town adopted this proposal at the last town election by an overwhelming margin. These items were spelled out in the law at that time - perhaps no one paid much attention to them then, but they were there, and could have been debated. It is not logical to push hard for basic changes now, when the program is already getting underway.

Language may be a vehicle of thought, but in some cases it is just an empty wagon.

Silence is sure fire protection for men who possess knowledge and those who are ignorant.

Attends Conference

Miss Miriam Putnam of the Memorial Hall Library is attending the annual conference of the American Library Association in Chicago this week. One of the nation's largest professional gatherings, the ALA Conference will have more than 5,000 librarians from all parts of the country participating. General sessions will present speakers of national prominence; organization and policy matters will be dealt with at meetings of the ALA Council. More than 400 business and program meetings will cover all phases of librarianship. At the final session, Dr. Frederick H. Wagman, director, University of Michigan Libraries, will be installed as the new President.

Miss Putnam has been invited to serve as discussion leader at the "conference within a conference", which is a separate section in five sessions. This is to be a study of the needs of students, libraries and the educational process and those present are to focus their attention on one concern: the increasing formal and informal use of libraries by students of all ages.

The Distaff Side

This week the library is featuring the part that women have played in the important developments of our world, in their own rights and in the roles they have played as wives and mothers of men who contributed much. The books collected under the heading "The Distaff Side" include such titles as "For Love Of A King", the memoirs of beautiful Queen Alexandra of Yugoslavia; "A Man Called Peter", Catherine Marshall's book of her life with the famous Chaplain of the U.S. Senate; "Mary Lincoln: biography of a marriage" by Ruth Randall, a new study of one of the most controversial women in America; "Wingless Victory", Frances Winwar's dual biography of Gabriele d'Annunzio and Eleanor Duse; "Enrico Caruso" as remembered in this biography by his wife; "Mrs. Fiske And The American Theatre" by Archie Binns is the exciting account of Minnie Maddern Fiske and Harrison Fiske, actress and drama critic who together made theater history; "Miss Howard And The Emperor", Maurois' story of Napoleon III and his mistress; "My Wife And I", by Sidney Homer, tells of his life with Louise Beatty Homer, of opera fame; "Marmee, the Mother of Little Women" by Salyer, tells of the wife of Bronson Alcott, Abba May Alcott, mother of Louisa May; "Me and Kit" is Guthrie McClintic's recollections of his life in the theater and with his wife, Katharine Cornell; "Dance To The Piper" is Agnes DeMille's own story, with references to her famous family; "Adventurous Alliance" by Louise Tharp is the story of the Agassiz family of Boston; Pearl Buck's "A Bridge For Passing" is one woman's testament of faith as she made her way back to life after the loss of her husband; Betty Miller's book "Robert Browning" is the story of Robert and Elizabeth, his wife, told with new insight and understanding; "Maude Adams", by Phyllis Robbins, is an intimate portrait of the actress for whom Barrie wrote "Peter Pan"; "A Gentle Knight", by Poppy Cannon, is a biography of the marriage of Poppy Cannon and Walter White; "Three Saints And A Sinner" by Louise H. Tharp is the story of Julia Ward Howe, her sisters Louisa and Annie and their brother Sam; "The Twenty-Seventh Wife" by Irving Wallace is the story of Ann Eliza Young, last wife of the Mormon Prophet, Brigham Young, who divorced her husband to lead in the fight against the American harem. These are only a few of the books waiting for those who want to know more about the "gentler sex" in biography.

New Framed Prints

A few weeks ago there was a display of a number of prints in the main reading room of the library. Visitors were invited to vote for those that appealed most to them, and from the voting there were five selected, and sent back for framing. Now they are ready to be shown, as of today, and will remain on view until Wednesday, July 24, at 5 o'clock, when they will go into circulation. No prints may be reserved, or renewed. There are printed rules available at the desk for anyone interested in making use of the print collection. Plan to come in during the week to see how near your vote was for the winners!

Bridesmaids were the Misses Barbara Bennett of Kingston, Joan Bugar of New Paltz, Geraldine Winters of Andover, sister of the bridegroom, Lucille Anderson of New Paltz and Caroline Bugar of New Paltz.

A princess crown of orange blossoms secured the bouffant veil of tiered silk illusion and she carried a cascade of white orchids, feathered carnations and lilies of the valley on a prayer book.

The attendants wore long gowns of ice blue peau de soie with contrasting blue cummerbund and train. Their headpieces were ice blue bows with circular veils.

The flower girl, Kim Vangoncic, sister of the bride, wore a gown of white lace over ice blue peau de soie and a matching bow.

The attendants carried cascades of delphinium and blue and white carnations, and the flower girl carried a miniature cascade of white and pale blue feathered carnations.

The bride's mother wore a beige sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of beige cymbidium orchids.

The bridegroom's mother chose a pink sheath with pink accessories and a corsage of matching orchids.

The altar was banked with arrangements of snapdragons, carnations, and chrysanthemums and the pews were marked with white satin bows and gladioli.

James Winters, just returned from Korea, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Lt. Duane Myers, Lt. John McMullen, Lt. George Lippenmeir, Lt. Edward Tezak and Lt. Jay Westmeir, all classmates at West Point Academy.

A reception was held at the Stuyvesant Hotel, Kingston, N. Y., followed by a wedding trip to Cape Cod. They will reside at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, before Lt. Winters is transferred next spring to Hawaii.

Orchestral Council Met This Month

An organizational meeting of the Orchestral Council of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra was held July 8, at the home of Chester W. Jameson, 64 Princeton ave., chairman of the Council and personnel manager of the Orchestra.

The Council is composed of musicians who are members of the Orchestra, and will act in an advisory capacity. Present, in addition to Mr. Jameson, were Domenic Teoli, concert master, of Lawrence; Leo Serratore, principal violinist, of Haverhill; Delphi Bracci, principal clarinetist, of Bradford; Mrs. Roger Higgins, pianist and Librarian, of Andover; Jan C. Peterson, tuba, of West Newbury; and Dr. Anthony Ippolito, violist, of Methuen. Also in attendance were Joseph A. Ierardi, conductor, and William H. Wilson, business manager of the Society. Many worthwhile suggestions were advanced by members of the Council and it was felt by those present that the 1963-'64 Season will be the Orchestra's finest.

It has been announced that the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra has been accepted for membership by the American Symphony Orchestra League as a metropolitan symphony orchestra. The League is located at Symphony Hill, Virginia, and is composed of the finest symphony orchestras in the country.

Joseph A. Ierardi, conductor of the local Orchestra, will spend the month of August in Hancock, Me., attending Pierre Monteux' Master Class. M. Monteux, who is 88, is the dean of all conductors, and is recognized as such throughout the music world. Only the finest musicians are invited to attend his class and Mr. Ierardi is one of the few American conductors to have been invited. He has received this honor for the second successive year.

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic is now accepting orders for the Season and Sponsor's ticket for the 1963-'64 Season. Four concerts have been planned during the months of November, December, April, and May. Season tickets include all four concerts. Sponsor's tickets entitle the holder to a reserved seat in a special section at all series concerts, plus invited attendance at a social hour with the musicians following the November concert. Being a sponsor also entitles one to a vote as a member of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society. Sponsors names will be listed in the programs.

The Philharmonic Society suggests that all music-lovers in the Merrimack Valley make reservations for the coming season well in advance to avoid any possibility of disappointment in the fall. All checks and communications should be addressed to the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society, Post Office Box 410, Andover.

Rare Treat Is In Store

In theatre terms, New Englanders have the orchestra pit reserved for the only performance of one of nature's rarest sky shows an eclipse of the sun Saturday afternoon, July 20.

And residents of the state of Maine have the front row seats. According to the Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science, central Maine is the only part of New England where the eclipse will be total. In fact, the only other state in the Union that will experience totality is Alaska.

Still, residents of other New England states won't miss out entirely. In contrast to the 100 per cent eclipse in Maine, Greater Bostonians for example will be able to view a 94 per cent eclipse, impressive in itself.

Also, since the event will occur in mid-afternoon some 2 1/2 hours before sunset, the sun should be well enough up in the western sky to be clearly visible to millions, weather permitting, of course.

The eclipse begins in Japan at sunrise, crosses the North Pacific, Alaska, Canada, and Maine, and ends in the Atlantic Ocean at sunset.

The moon's shadow moves rapidly along the path of totality, requiring less than three minutes to travel from the Quebec border to the Atlantic Ocean. Duration of the total phase of the eclipse along the center line will be 62 seconds at Bar Harbor.

Observation stations for viewing the eclipse should be not more than about 20 miles either side of the center line. The Hayden Planetarium and Museum of Science staffs plan to set up their stations at Cadillac Mountain and nearby in the Bar Harbor region.

Beyond this distance, duration of the total phase falls off rapidly, becoming only a fraction of a second at the outer edges.

In the area along the Atlantic coast of Maine, partial phase begins at 4:40 p.m., mid-eclipse of total phase is at 5:45 p.m., and the end of the eclipse is at 6:48 p.m. The duration of totality at Bar Harbor is 59 seconds.

For stay-at-home, the Planetarium has prepared the following time-table, giving best viewing times of the City of Boston:

Partial phase begins, 4:40 p.m.; maximum eclipse (94%), 5:47 p.m.;

Better To Get Wet Than Hide Beneath Trees

Dr. Salazar Now In Detroit

Dr. F. N. Salazar, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Salazar, 2 West Knoll rd., has recently left for Detroit, Mich., where he will pursue specialized medical training in dermatology at Wayne State University, College of Medicine.

Dr. Salazar will join the staff of Prof. Herman Pinkus, director and chairman of the Department of Dermatology and will work at Ford Hospital and Receiving Hospital of Detroit.

Dr. Salazar graduated from Long Island University, studied further at New York University and from there went to Bologna University in Bologna, Italy where he received his Doctorate in Medicine. Three months ago he completed his internship at Lawrence General Hospital. More recently, he has served on the staff at Danvers State Hospital while waiting to start training in his specialty.

Upon completion of his training in Detroit, Dr. Salazar plans to return to Andover and enter private practice.

32 Schools Represented

Children from 32 different schools are enrolled in the Summer School classes being held at the High School.

Director G. Arthur Danforth, reporting to the School Committee, said 245 students are taking courses, with some enrolled in two classes.

New courses added this year are Math 8, American History and instrumental music. There was little interest in suggested advanced courses in pre-college math and science for upper elementary grades. Mr. Danforth suggested to the Committee that emphasis seems to be on remedial subjects, but he hopes next year to encourage advanced courses.

On the faculty of the school are Miss Katherine Sweeney, Mrs. Dorothy Partridge, Mrs. Ingrid Simon, Owen Hinckley, William Vickers, Miss Agnes Dugan.

Miss Mary LaCouture, John Boyle, Mrs. Rita Buchan, William Godfrey, Mrs. Rita Dubrule, Richard Collins, Edward Grigoli and Mrs. Parker.

Students in the school pay tuition to the town, and, besides local schools, come from Lawrence High, Central Catholic, North Andover High, Brooks School, Woodbury of Salem, N.H., St. Patrick's, St. Mary's, St. John's Prep, Hennessey School in Plymouth, N.H.

Chapel Hill in Waltham, Northfield Academy, Belmont Hill, Nazareth Academy, Presentation of Mary Academy, Tilton, Marvelwood of Cornwall, Conn., The New Hampton School, Phillips Exeter, Academy of Notre Dame, Groton and Walnut Hill School in Natick.

One-fourth of all deaths from lightning occur among persons who seek shelter under or near a tree.

A bolt may cause a tree to explode, says Dr. Philip L. Rusden, or it may shatter it. Or after striking a tree it may flash sideways or run along the ground killing anyone in its path.

Even gathering in the family wash from clothesline attached to a tree can be hazardous during an electrical storm.

Of all trees the oak is the unsafest. It is struck with the greatest frequency. After that come the elm, pine, ash, poplar, and maple in order of lightning susceptibility. A beech tree is seldom struck, yet still it's unsafe during a lightning storm.

Trees standing singly or in small groups in the open or at the edge of a wood are prime lightning targets. Trees in sandy and loam soils are hit more often than those in clay, marl or calcareous soils.

Some bolts from the blue are "cold," others 27,000 degrees F. That is why lightning injury to a tree follows no set pattern. Roots may be killed in some instances, the area beneath the bark in others.

Some lightning-hit trees can be restored to health by bark-tracing areas of loose bark, followed by feeding. Trees struck by lightning may die suddenly, or slowly over a period of months. Others may not be badly injured.

But prized trees can be safeguarded from lightning strokes by turning them into giant lightning rods. A loosely woven copper conductor is strung from the treetop down the forks, along the trunk and grounded deep in moist soil six to eight feet or more beyond the branch spread.
